Two men arrested for Loitering By Begging or Pandering

12/31/2012

On Sunday, December 30, 2012 the Bluffton Police Department arrested two individuals for Loitering by Begging and Pandering out in front of multiple stores.

The Bluffton Police Department obtained reports, over the past week, of two individuals approaching females and asking them for money. These individuals would explain to a lone female that their car was broken down. They would then ask for money to help get their car repaired.

The individuals, identified as William Thomas Davis and William Travis Davis, were located on Sunday as they were trying to get money from another female. Officers were immediately contacted and they responded out to the area where they found the suspects and their vehicle.

The Bluffton Police Department arrested William Thomas Davis and William Travis Davis for Loitering. They were transported to the Beaufort County Detention Center and are currently being held on cash bonds.

The Bluffton Police Department encourages everyone to use caution when they are shopping by themselves. People are encouraged to contact the Bluffton Police Department to report any type of suspicious activity that may be observed.
